Committee.

The county convention for the nomination of county officers has been called for the 13th of September.

The Prohibitionists of the Eighth Congressional district will meet in Convention on the 21st of Sept. and by agreement will endorse the nomination of William T. Price.

Mr. H. S. Slaymaker, of the town of Turle in the Third district, is a candidate for the Assembly; and Hon. John Conley, of Clinton, is a candidate for re-nomination.

A portion of the editorial fraternity of Wisconsin met at Hudson on Tuesday in convention. The attendance was large. There is nothing like free rides in Pullman cars and free entertainment to draw a big crowd of editors.

Colonel Ingersoll is experiencing a change of heart. It is said that when he under took the defense of the Star route men he fully believed their innocence. But the more recent testimony as to their guilt has convinced him that he is upholding a bad cause. Consequently, they say, he has determined, as soon as he is done with the case, to quit the law business entirely. Next!

So as Democratic papers are busily engaged in attacking the Republican party for passing the River and Harbor bill over the veto of the President. This is about the length and breadth of Democratic honesty. Of course the Republicans by uniting could have saved the party the humiliation it has suffered by the passage of the bill over the veto, and likewise the Democrats could have united and killed the bill which they should have done, but they had too much of the rock and couldn't let go their treacherous hold on the grab. Too Democrats cannot catch votes by that sort of campaign work. The native folks transparent to deceive the people.

The defense put in by the members who voted for the River and Harbor bill, is that they were compelled to vote for it or allow the appropriations for the rivers and harbors go over until another year. The bill, as all such bills are, was prepared by the committee on commerce, and stubbornly pressed to a passage by them. The Northern members who voted for the bill, having important rivers and harbors in their districts, claim that while they saw the injustice in spending money on many unimportant and seemingly worthless rivers and creeks in the South, they were driven to the alternative of taking the bill as reported by the committee on commerce, or have nothing at all. They defend their action in voting for it on the ground that they could not sacrifice the interests of the rivers and harbors in the North because there was some streams in the South provided with appropriations which were in reality not entitled to them. The spirit of the press and the sentiment of the people is that it would have been better not to have had any appropriations at all than to submit to a wrong. But 163 members of Congress—55 Republicans and 78 Democrats—look the other way of the question and voted against the veto.

A CONTEST OF WASHBURN'S WILL.
It will be regretted that there are indications that the will of the late Governor Washburn will be contested. It was supposed that the instrument was so well drawn that it would disarm any attempt to break it. But busybodies have been at work, and aided by lawyers, they have discovered that according to the law of Minnesota the widow of Governor Washburn becomes the absolute owner of each third of the estate which was within that State. It will be remembered that the second item in the remarkable will of which he disposed of his splendid fortune, reads as follows:

Second—I direct my executors to bear constantly in mind the wants of my wife, and to set aside, use and expend whatever moneys may be necessary consistently with her condition, to provide for her comfort and physical health, and I place no limit upon the sums which they spend for the purpose indicated.

This is all that any man could do for a wife in her condition. She is insane and has been in an eastern asylum for more than twenty-five years and never will regain her reason. Her condition is such that she will be compelled to remain there during the remaining years of her life, and bearing in mind this fact, Governor Washburn placed no limit on the amount the executors should expend in providing for her comfort, but gave them full power to use any sum they deemed best. This was ample provision, all that possibly could be made, and any attempt to break the will that she might get one-third of the estate, is the work of sharks and shysters. They do it for the purpose of grabbing a large portion of the estate and not that they care for Mrs. Washburn. If she had a wife's dower right, she could never use it because of her insanity, and nine chances out of ten it would be squandered by the person who would be appointed guardian for her. There is no doubt that the proceedings which have already begun will lead to serious complications and in a large measure cripple the magnificent bequests which Governor Washburn made.

THE OUTLOOK IN THE FIRST CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

One week from to-day the Congressional Convention for the First district will be held at Geneva. So far there has been no organized opposition to Mr. Williams' re-nomination, and there is every reason to believe that he will be re-nominated on the first ballot by a decided majority. Of course he will have Rock at his back solid, as he always has had, will have a portion of Walworth, all of Racine and all of Kenosha, which will reach twenty votes, five more than are necessary for a choice. There has been much said recently about a war in this district over the nomination of a candidate for Congress, but (1) there is no one whose congressional ambition is strong enough to carry him into a stubborn contest for the nomination; and (2) the dominant sentiment in the district is in favor of the return of Mr. Williams. These two facts make it impossible to defeat him in the convention, and all signs indicate that he will have a walkaway with the nomination.

Even to an ordinary observer, it will not appear strange that this condition of things exists. Mr. Williams has borne a prominent part in the proceedings of Congress during a number of years, and especially during the past session has been a man of business, having had thrown upon his hands as much work as generally falls to the lot of a member of Congress. There has been a good deal said of late by two or three small papers about Mr. Williams not having done anything in Congress. Generally speaking, if a member of Congress does nothing more than attend the regular sessions of the House and answers from day to day the letters he receives from his constituents about pensions and positions or this and that, he will have his hands pretty full of work. But during the past session which has been a long and tedious one, he served as chairman of the committee on Foreign Affairs, one of the most important committees in the House, and which spent weeks in investigating the Chili-Peru Shipwreck business, and on the committee on the death of President Garfield, the committee on Expenditures of the State Department, and on the joint committee of conference in relation to the Japanese indemnity fund. Beside doing all this work and attending to a mass of correspondence, he made eighteen speeches and numerous reports.

These facts give Mr. Williams a hold on the First district which cannot be broken by the arguments of the small papers that have taken up the cudgel against him.

CLOSING SCENES.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 8.—The session closed at last at 3 o'clock this afternoon without any of the usual excitement either within the two Houses or in the lobbies. Indeed, the lobby members, who have had a most unprofitable winter, left the city some days since. President Arthur, accompanied by his Cabinet, came to the Capitol about 2 o'clock, and proceeded to the President's room from whence he sent a message to each of the two Houses, through its committee, stating that he had no further communications to make to Congress. He examined and signed several bills and resolutions and remained until after the adjournment. The Senate remained in executive session until a few minutes before 3 o'clock, when the doors were opened and a number of privileged persons went in on the floor, while a few spectators entered the galleries. Nothing was done in open session, however, except a motions request that Mr. Morrill should take up his tax bill, and at 3 o'clock the session was adjourned sine die. A number of Senators, including Mr. Hoar, had gone North at half past 1, and those who remained, after cordial interchanges of farewell, left the Capitol to remain away until next December.

KEYES'S CANDIDACY.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Advises received here indicate that the Hon. E. W. Keyes has received a reverse in his canvass for Congress against Mr. George C. Hazelton the sitting member. It seems that the story of Keyes's connection with the repeal of the Potter law has been revived, and the effect is not propitious for him among the farmers. The story goes that the cat was let out of the bag by a controversy between Keyes and an attorney named John Spooner. Mr. Spooner was employed, it is stated by the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad Company to represent them at Madison, use his personal efforts to secure the repeal of the Potter law regulating railway traffic. It is alleged that Keyes was also similarly engaged, and had funds placed in his hands to meet expenses incidental to the accomplishment of the repeal of the law obnoxious to the railroads, and worked in their behalf. It is alleged the moment the news was spread regarding the law, Keyes telegraphed to Milwaukee that it was done and he did it, leaving Spooner out in the cold. Spooner resented this and claimed that this was not fair; it was discounting his efforts with his employers, and he demanded that he should have a share of the credit for securing the desired legislation, and that Mr. Keyes had no right to the pretense of having engineered the bill through the Legislature alone. It is reported that in the rural districts this matter is being discussed, and the contest is assuming the shape of farmers versus the railroads.

RIGHTIOUS HANGING.

LaCrosse, Aug. 8.—James T. Phillips, the Viroqua farmer who was imprisoned for improper relations with his daughter Ruth, which led to her death, committed suicide by hanging himself in the jail at that place last Saturday night, the fact not being discovered until the following morning.

CHARITIES.

MADISON, Aug. 8.—The conference of Charities and Corrections met at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The business committee reported that there are in the United States ten State Boards of Charities, which are as follows: The Massachusetts Board, Ohio Board, Rhode Island Board, Pennsylvania Board, Illinois Board, Wisconsin Board, Michigan Board, Connecticut Board and Kansas Board. At 10 a. m. George I. Chase, chairman of the Rhode Island Board, read a paper upon the proper functions of Boards of State Charities and Corrections.

At the afternoon session the reports of delegations from several of the New England and Eastern States on the condition of State Boards and the work done by them in charitable, penal, and reformatory institutions, together with a mass of statistics relating to insanity, crime, and pauperism, were given. An informal discussion, participated in by a large number of the delegates.

In the evening, papers on "Pauperism and its Prevention," by C. S. Watkins, of Davenport, Iowa, and on "County Care of Insane Paupers," by H. H. Giles of Madison, was read. Discussion on the papers was participated by B. F. Sanborn, of Boston, Dr. Rogers, of New York, Lyman Alden, of Michigan, favoring county care, and by E. H. Winsor, of Illinois, A. G. Byers, of Ohio, Dr. Walker, of Philadelphia, and others opposing.

RETURNED TO HIS HOME.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 8.—George H. Bethard, the Milwaukee crank, who created a sensation by attempting to shoot Garfield in the court room at Washington, has returned to this city and has been admitted to the Soldiers' Home. He was committed to a lunatic asylum immediately after the attempted shooting, but was immediately released.

WISCONSIN EDITORS.

The Annual Convention at Hudson.
Hudson, Wis., Aug. 8.—The annual convention of the editors and pastepot, yelet the Wisconsin Editorial Association, was held in this city to-day. The weather has been all that could be desired, and the attendance is unusually large. A number of the editors arrived last evening, but most of them came in on the morning's trains. The ride hither was not remarkable for any notable incident. The first half of the journey was made under the cover of the night's darkness, and the balance, from Camp Douglas to Hudson, was through an unromantic section of country, 175 miles long, to traverse which required seven uncommonly long hours. Arriving at Hudson the fraternity was met at the depot by the City Band and escorted to town. The hotels were inadequate to accommodate the guests and generous people of Hudson threw open their houses for the entertainment of the guests. At 6 o'clock the meeting of the Association was held in the Opera hall. Short speeches of welcome were made, to which there were appropriate responses.

A business meeting followed, at which officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, S. S. Field, of the Ashland Press; secretary, J. D. Cox, of the Milwaukee Register; treasurer, David Atwood, of the Madison Journal; vice-presidents, one from each congressional district, S. S. Rockwood, of the Elkhorn Independent, Edward Benson, of the Fond du Lac Journal; M. P. Rind, of the Platteville Witness; P. V. Deuster, of the Milwaukee Sentinel; John Niles, of the Janesville Gazette; Wm. A. George, of the Hartford Republican; E. A. Charleton, of the Broadhead Independent; A. J. Dodge, of Peck's Sun, Milwaukee; A. L. Warden, of The Plymouth Reporter; J. T. Cogan, of The Montello Sun; J. H. Powers, of The Republic Republican; A. Leith, of The Arcadia Republican; Paul Fontaine, of The Grand Rapids Reporter.

During the evening Charles Seymour delivered the annual address, and Carlotta Perry read the poem.

THE RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

Aside from agreeing with 99 out of every hundred of the people and the same proportion of the press throughout the country, regarding the passage of the disgraceful River and Harbor bill over the veto of the President, it seems to me that we are paying very much for a very little in this district. I have done some calculating, not guessing, but working with figures, and the result will both astonish and perplex the tax-payers. For instance, the entire appropriation for the rivers and harbors, in its round numbers, nineteen million dollars. While Wisconsin contributes $435,550 this year, to the National treasury, the first congressional district pays $52,423, and gets back only $13,000 which is swallowed by Racine and Kenosha, and of this $52,423 Rock county is compelled to pay $14,363, and the city of Janesville $3,700. For one I don't believe in Rock county or any other county in the north, contributing money to be squandered in the South on rivers that never were navigable and never can be made so.

An inspection will convince any one that the Gazette job department can turn out as fine work as any office anywhere. The fair will be opened Oct. 3d, and continue to the 6th inclusive. The management are doing everything to insure its success, and the indications now are that it will exceed any former exposition given under the auspices of the society.

SNOW IN SUMMER.

Reminiscence of the Beautiful in Janesville To-day.

A most unusual phenomena occurred this afternoon at about 2:25 o'clock, a conclusive proof that though this year is a decidedly old one in weather, it has not yet developed all its peculiarities. The Canadian wizard, Venner, must be working his grummary. This morning it was cloudy with every appearance of rain, and the thermometer was down in the winter regions. Later the clouds disappeared and the sun shone out bright and warm. At 2 o'clock the clouds gathered again, and at 2:20 it began to drizzle. Accompanying the slight rain was snow. A line, droll gentlemen saw it and will vouch for the falling of the beautiful.

Snow in midsummer, when the mercury only two days before was perspiring in the nineties, is something rather extraordinary, particularly as the thermometer at the time registered 64 degrees above zero. To cap the climax or the climate, in ten minutes after the snow fell the sun again shone out.

The flakes were small and thin, and had a half shrouded out of season look, but they were plainly distinguished.

"Their Occupation Gone."

R. V. PRINCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.: I was attacked with congestion of the lungs, soreness over the liver, severe pain in the joints, a burning fever, and general debility. After several days of suffering I tried your "Golden Medical Discovery." It effected my entire cure. Your medicine has only to be used to be appreciated. If every family would give them a trial, nine-tenths of the doctors would, like Oshel, find their occupation gone.

Trotting at the Track.

The race track at the fair grounds was the scene yesterday of an interesting trial of speed, between three of the trotters out there. The starters were, the Swigert horse "Moody," the Swigert "Bay-burn," and Corning's (McKinney's) roan horse "McK. Swigert." The heats were all trotted in less than 2:30; Moody making it in 2:27 and McK. getting one in 2:29. Considering the track which was a little slow, this time was excellent and promises well for succeeding races. It was undoubtedly the most interesting race ever trotted on the track, and has awakened a renewed interest in trotting here, and at the earnest solicitation of a great many admirers of the turf, Mr. Clark has arranged to have the same horses meet next Saturday afternoon. If the weather continues fine, fast time may be expected and a good crowd will doubtless attend. No charge will be made for entrance at the gate, but as there will be some necessary expenses it is expected that spectators will donate a small sum to cover them, about 25 cents each. The trotting will be well worth seeing.

The Weather.

REPORTED BY PRACTICE & EVANSON DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 7 o'clock a. m. today registered 58 degrees above zero, and at 1 p. m. 63 degrees above. For the corresponding period last year it was 74 and 89 degrees above.

Advice to an Heir.

A young man of this city, who has a rich uncle in another State, was recently called to the bedside of his relative who was very ill. The young man has returned home, and yesterday remarked to a confidential friend that the "old fellow" was pretty sick, but might pull through. "Do you get anything if he croaks?" "O, Yes. I'm his only relative—about $150,000."

Then you want to be a watcher with him one night. Treat him nicely—caress him with a base ball bat, you know, sponge him off with a crowbar, rub him down with a sand bag, dose him with a little concentrated lye, play the small boy with a toy pistol; or better, get up a little private amusement by making the old gent think he is a Russian Czar in disguise, and blow him up with a dynamite bomb. I tell you there's nothing like hustling, or ringing in a cold deck when the other fellow's a sucker.

Could Hardly Stand on Her Feet.

R. V. PRINCE, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I must tell you before your medicine has done for me. Before taking your "Favorite Prescription" I could hardly stand on my feet, but, by following your advice, I am perfectly cured. The "Favorite Prescription" is a wonderful medicine for debilitated and nervous females. I cannot express how thankful I am to you for advice. Yours truly,

Mrs. CORNELIA ALBINSON, Peosta, Ia.
